Rules for Submitting Your Story to
American Indian Responses to Environmental Challenges

By submitting content to the American Indian Responses to Environmental Challenges website you agree to the following terms and conditions:

- You are solely responsible for the content that you submit and the consequences of submitting content.
- If you are under the age of 18, you must have your parent or guardian’s permission to submit your story. If you are under the age of 13, you must submit your story through your parent, guardian, or teacher.
- If you are a teacher (or other adult submitting on behalf of a person under the age of 18), prior to submitting any content you must have permission from the parents or guardians of the students (or persons under the age of 18) who appear in the story.
- By submitting content, you give the Smithsonian and those authorized by the Smithsonian permission to use it in whole or part for any educational, promotional, or other standard museum purpose, in any media now known or later developed, without compensation to you. You also give the public permission to use the story in whole or part for personal, educational, or non-commercial purposes in any media now known or later developed without compensation to you.
- The Smithsonian Institution’s privacy statement applies to information collected for this project. The privacy statement can be found at http://www.si.edu/Privacy.
- You understand that Flickr, Slideshare, and YouTube operate independently of the Smithsonian and have their own terms of use and privacy policies which can be found at http://www.flickr.com/, http://www.slideshare.net/, and http://www.youtube.com/ respectively. You understand that comments with which you disagree may become associated with your story.
- Your story will not contain content that is off-topic, partisan-political, includes personal attacks or expletives, or otherwise is abusive, threatening, unlawful, harassing, discriminatory, libelous, obscene, false, pornographic content, or that infringes on the rights of any third party.
- You only will submit content that you own or for which you have received permission from the person or entity that owns the content and intellectual property rights.
- You understand that the Smithsonian screens submitted stories and is under no obligation to use the story you submit. The Smithsonian reserves the right to not post or remove any story or content that it determines in its sole discretion either does not comply with these rules, does not comply with www.si.edu/termsofuse, or is culturally or environmentally insensitive.
- The Smithsonian may make the content you submit available to the public online or at its premises.
- Do not submit any content, including personally identifiable information, that you do not want made public. By submitting content, you waive any privacy expectations you may have with regard to the submitted content.
- At the end of the American Indian Responses to Environmental Challenges project, content collected by the Smithsonian will be disposed of according to applicable Smithsonian record retention and archiving policies and practices, however, contact information such as email addresses will not be archived.
• You agree to indemnify and hold the Smithsonian harmless against any claims asserted by any third parties that allege your submission violates their rights, or from any breaches by you of these terms of use. You shall be responsible for any costs incurred by the Smithsonian for defense or settlement of third-party claims, including but not limited to reasonable attorney’s fees.
• You agree to the Smithsonian’s website terms of use, available at www.si.edu/Termsofuse, which are incorporated here by reference.
• All submissions are voluntary on your part.
• Smithsonian decisions are final and binding.
